Welcome to the second month of the new year. Happy Valentine's Day!

Each year, during the month of February, we celebrate African-American History!

In 1925, Harvard-trained historian Carter G. Woodson, known as the "Father of Black History," had a bold idea.

That year, he announced "Negro History Week" - a celebration of a people that many in this country at the time believed had no place in history.
